

FEASTS OF MUSIC FOR THE TEACHERS

SECOND DAY OF THE INSTITUTE OPENS WITH CONCERT UNDER THE DIRECTION OF MR. MAX-WELL.

INSTRUCTORS PLEASE ALL

The teachers and the many citizens who came to the court room Tuesday morning were more than repaid for their exertion in the excellent music. Mr. Harry Maxwell had promised a treat at the opening of the session, and he kept his word. The first feature out of the ordinary was a selection "The Chimes" played by Miss Marquis upon the piano. This is an imitation of the chimes as played upon the cathedral bells in St Paul's at London. The selection was much appreciated and will be part of the opening exercises each morning.

On Monday afternoon Dr. Moran gave the second of his lectures, treating the "Philosophy of History." He traced out that history was valuable only as it affected the present day life. He quoted a number of historians who laid the emphasis upon special phases of history. He said, however, that for undergraduates, and common school pupils what was wanted was a general view of history, touching the politics and life of the peoples. History is valuable, not for its facts but for the modifying effect the knowledge of history has upon our conception of life now and life to be. Dr. Moran is becoming very popular with the teachers, and each lecture is looked forward to with eagerness.

Senator Tilden closed the program on Monday with some illustrations of literature. He dealt with what he called the literature of the imaginative interpretation of ideas. He quoted from William Morris and William Vaughan Moody illustrating such imaginative interpretation of the idea of the subconscious in psychology, the theory of evolution and modern political ideas.

The first talk on Tuesday morning was by Senator Tilden upon "The Imaginative Interpretation of Life." He used Wordsworth's "Ode on the Intimations and Immortality" as an illustration, and pointed out the relation of each stanza to the problem of existence.

At the beginning of Senator Tilden's discussion of imagination in literature Miss Marquis played one of McDowell's sea pieces, selecting the one entitled "The Year of Our Lord 1620." The difficult selection was beautifully executed, and illustrated well the tendency in modern music to enlarge the realm of imaginative interpretation.

Dr. Moran's morning talk was devoted to a discussion of the text books and reference books of value to the teacher of history. He emphasized the fact that each teacher must, to a certain extent, develop his own method of teaching. Thinking, he declared, is almost a lost art. The successful teacher of history must do a great deal of thinking, and use as a basis many books with their different views of the subject.

Senator Tilden next discussed the play of Macbeth. He declared that this play seemed to him to be one showing the struggle of man with the unseen and unknown forces of evil in the universe, as the people of Shakespeare's time saw these things. Macbeth was a great and good man dragged down in much the same way as Job, though through a different method. The speaker mentioned other methods of interpreting the play, but stated that in the light of the problem as presented in Job, the later theory had justification.

The music after the noon hour was again a drawing card and many who were not teachers were present. A cornet solo by Mr. Paul Smith was delightfully rendered and much appreciated.

Dr. Moran spoke most entertainingly of the work of the great American historians, Flisk, Parkman, Prescott and McMillan were spoken of at length, and the teachers listened most intently. Bancroft was also mentioned. A number of books valuable for colateral reading were also mentioned. Woodrow Wilson's History of the United States was also praised.

RALPH MOSS TO THE FRONT

OUR CONGRESSMAN IS ON TO A STEADY JOB AND HE WILL WORK ALL SUMMER.

MAKING A RECORD FOR GOOD

A Washington special which deals with the notoriety which the members of the Indiana Congressional delegation is receiving, has the following to say of Congressman Ralph W. Moss' appearance in the limelight.

Representative Ralph Moss, of the Fifth, who took up the cudgel on behalf of Doc Wiley as against benzoate's aggressive advocates in the Department of Agriculture, has obtained by grace of lightning's chance aim, the best little bundle of country-wide advertising that has fallen to any member of the Congress.

Moss right now is as prominent in Washington, as the curly-haired tenor who sings ballads in the nickel theater where the spotlight plays the fiercest. Moss is not a tenor. He is a farmer, and that is the chief thing he is trying to impress upon the people today. He is chairman of the committee on expenditures in the Department of Agriculture. He is one of the many Democrats who has been called on by the party exigency and need, and by the inquisitive spirit of the times, to "investigate" something. Moss was obscure and quiet until the Wiley ouster scheme broke. That called for an inquiry into the administration of the pure food and drug act. In that inquiry Moss has shone. Not a minute has he been away from the incandescent and dazzling glare of fame. He has become used to it. He rather likes it, in fact. And he is envied by all Hoosier statesmen as well as by members of Congress from other states.

It happens that Moss was under Dr. Wiley at Purdue university some years ago, and this fact adds a personal phase to the situation in which these two Indiana men have found themselves recently. Moss' friends go so far as to predict at this early stage of his publicity venture, that Moss will be hard to beat in case he goes after a United States senatorship some time later in his career. Already they say Moss will be unbeatable in the Fifth District when he runs for Representative again. Which shows Moss and his followers have great faith in that publicity thing.

OLD CISTERN BEING FILLED

ONE OF THE MOST HISTORIC PLACES OF GREENCASTLE WILL SOON BE A THING OF
THE PAST—HELPED IN THE
CHECKING OF THE BIG FIRE IN 1874.

STILL HAS WATER IN IT

The old town cistern situated at the southeast corner of the square, probably one of the most historic places in Greencastle, is now being filled up. Men were put to work Tuesday morning breaking in the top of the cistern and filling the large hole with rock and earth. On account of the lid to the cistern being under the sidewalk surrounding the court house yard, it was necessary to break the side and top of the brick wall to obtain an opening to enable the workmen to fill the hole. The cistern is about 15 feet deep and about 12 or 14 feet wide. There was over 8 feet of water in it Tuesday morning.

The cistern will be remembered by the older residents of the city as having played an important part in the checking of the big fire in 1874. It was built in 1869 and was used until the water works were built. During the big fire in 1874 an Indianapolis fire engine pumped water from the cistern onto the burning buildings. Before the fire was finally checked the water supply in the cistern was exhausted. It was then necessary to get the water from the public spring.

After the big fire the city ordered 17 similar cisterns built in various parts of the town. These were used until the water works were built. The water in the cistern came from the roof of the old Talburt building, which formerly stood where the First National Bank building now stands. The drain tile leading to the cistern were torn up several days ago. The cistern also helped in the extinguishing of the second big fire which occurred a few years after the fire of 1874.

TROUBLE OVER THAT LAND DEAL

ALLEGED THAT THE OKLAHOMA
LAND SWAPPED FOR TERRE HAUTE RESIDENCE IS WORTH-LESS AND NOT AS REPRESENT-ED

WANTS THE TITLE ANNULLED

The Terre Haute Tribune of Monday says: "The charge of obtaining fraudulently from Strothers E. Pierson, a piece of city property valued at $5,800, is made in a complaint filed Monday by Attorney Finley McNutt against Theodore Crawley and Minnie D. Crawley. Attorneys W. J. Houck and F. R. Cline are charged with having consummated the alleged fraudulent deal.

According to the complaint Pierson authorized Houck and Cline to sell or exchange his Victorine Park property in this city, the attorneys acting as agents. Pierson alleges that the lawyers were also attorneys for the Crawley people and that by fraudulent representation secured an exchange of the property in Victorine Park for Oklahoma lands represented at being worth from $50 to $65 an acre owing to coal deposits under it and timber upon it. Pierson complains that the Oklahoma land is absolutely worthless when it is supposed to be worth $16,000.

The suit is for annulment of title granted by the transaction and all other legal dispositions created by the exchange.

OLD SOLDIERS' PICNIC.

The Fourth Annual Old Settlers' Picnic will be held at the Indiana State Soldiers' Home at Lafayette, Thursday, September 7. Invitations for the event have been received here by many of the Civil War veterans and a number are planning to attend. BIG SUIT AGAINST THE INTERURBAN

OTHO CHADWICK, LONE PAS-SENGER ON CAR THAT COLLID-ED WITH LOSE FLAT CARS ON TRACTION LINE SEVERAL MONTHS AGO, ASKS $15,000
DAMAGES

CLAIMS MANY INJURIES

Otho S. Chadwick, through his attorneys, Gillen & Wilson, has filed suit in the Putnam Circuit Court against the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Company for $15,000 damages for injuries received in a traction car wreck January 20, 1911. Chadwick, it will be remembered, was the only passenger on the car which was wrecked when it collided with two flat cars, near the Walnut creek bridge. The motorman, Harry Parnall, was instantly killed. It was at first believed that Chadwick was not seriously injured. Later, however, it was necessary for him to be taken to a hospital.

In the complaint, Chadwick alleges that when the passenger car hit the flat cars, he was thrown against the seat in front of where he was sitting. He alleges that this caused injuries to the muscles of his back, neck, shoulders and breast; that his spine was badly twisted and wrenched and that he suffered a great nervous shock and is permanently injured. Chadwick was confined in a hospital for about three weeks and since that time has been confined to his home. His home is near Fox station. He was on his way home from this city when the accident occurred.

The accident occurred on the night of January 20, 1911. The express car left the station here about twenty minutes before the passenger. Two flat cars were attached to the express car. A few miles west of this city the two flat cars broke loose from the express car and before it was known that they were loose, the passenger had crashed into them. The motorman of the passenger car, Harry Parnall, of Indianapolis, was instantly killed. Chadwick was the only passenger on the car. He was thrown from his seat. He was able to go to his home and it was not believed that he was injured. He was in Greencastle the day after the accident and made the remark: "I didn't even know there had been a wreck until several minutes after it occurred." He said that he first believed that the car "had just jumped the track." However, a few days later his injuries caused him much pain and he grew suddenly worse.

FORMER LOCAL MAN IN TROUBLE

ROBERT THOMPSON PROCEEDS TO "COME THROUGH" WHEN ARRESTED IN STAUNTON, ILL.,
FOR GIVING CHECK TO FRED THOMAS, WHEN HE, (THE FOR-MER,) HAD NO FUNDS IN THE BANK

WAS ARRESTED YESTERDAY

On the request of Sheriff Stroube, Robert Thompson, formerly a dispatcher at the local interurban station, was arrested by the authorities at Staunton, Ill., Monday. About a year ago Thompson gave Fred Thompson a check on the Central National Bank for $51 for house rent and money borrowed. Thompson did not have an account at the bank.

A few days ago Sheriff Stroube notified the authorities at Staunton to arrest Thompson and hold him and that officers from here with requisition papers would be after him. Tuesday morning a message was received from the police at Staunton stating that Thompson was under arrest. Another message was received by Sheriff Stroube from Thompson asking the cause of his arrest, and saying that he was willing to settle any trouble. A message was sent him in the following words: "The Thomas Check." He immediately wired the amount of the check and the costs to Sheriff Stroube and the proceedings have been dropped.

IT IS JUSTICE NOT PRIVELEGE

THAT IS DEMANDED BY THE EQUAL SFFRAGE ASSOCIATION OF NEW YORK, AND THE FACT IS PLAINLY STATED BY MRS.
WILLIAM WARREN PENFIELD, A NATIVE OF THE CITY OF GREENCASTLE KNOWN.

AS MISS E. JEAN NELSON

The Chicago Tribune of recent date makes notice of the "seats in street cars for women" movement in New York City, as follows:

"Mrs. William Warren Penfield, acting chairman of the equal suffrage organization in New York, promptly, and from the sincere suffragist viewpoint properly, rebels against the endeavors of the New York police department to keep the men from hogging the bridge car seats."

"We do not ask for privilege or favor," she says. "We demand justice and it will never come to us through the arbitrary act of a police inspector, no matter how good his intent may be."

"This may undo some of the damage done the principles of the cause by a sentimental part of the sisterhood which interposed in behalf of the Iowa woman sentenced to the stone pile, but it is possible that Mrs. Penfield does not see the real motive half hidden behind the chivalry of the police."

"Decent men object to a hogish if not brutal scramble for seats, partly because it puts femininity to inconvenience, but more because it is a discomfiting revelation of masculinity—partly because the seat hogs are offensive to women, but more because they are offensive to men."

THE COUNTY LINE ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

A special from Rockville says: "George Ralnes, A. M. Gardner and James E. Houck of the Board of Commissioners of Putnam County, and C. C. Gillen, county attorney of Putnam County, met in joint session with the Board of Commissioners of Parke County here today to consider the Parke and Putnam County line gravel road. At the joint session of the boards held here in July the consideration of the road was taken up but was postponed at the request of the Putnam County board until this time.

Advice is Dirt Cheap

FAR be it from me to butt into another man's business," said Beeson to his neighbor Jagway, "but I have been watching you spoiling good lumber for an hour and I can't help saying that you don't know how to make a wheelbarrow. Your intentions are all right, of course, and you may be able to make a windmill or a sawhorse, but when it comes to making a wheelbarrow you don't stack up more than an inch high.

"Now, if there's one branch of industry in which I excel, it's making wheelbarrows. I studied the difficult art under the great German and Italian masters and I believe in the general diffusion of knowledge. I say a man is a criminal who buries some valuable secret in his breast, instead of making it public for the benefit of his fellow men. Although I gained my knowledge in a hard school, I do not want to hoard it. I'm always glad to show a man how to make a wheelbarrow."

"I don't want to make a wheelbarrow," replied Jagway, sourly, still pondering away at the dog kennel he was building. "When I want any information from you I'll ask you for it."

"That's always the way," said Beeson. "The man who really is public spirited never is appreciated. He goes around trying to do good and people say him and tell him to saturate his head. There was old Galileo, who invented a telescope or a clothes horse, or something of that sort. What did they do to him? Did they give him a pearl handled umbrella or a gold headed cane? No sir, they jammed him into a nasty dungeon away underground and fed him on prunes and rye bread, and the school children pestered him with their bean shooters through the barred windows of his cage."

"Then there was Christopher Columbus. He was a man with a great idea. He took a cold storage egg which was so strong that it stood on end, and he reasoned that there must be a continent away beyond the jumping off place, and he hired a steam launch or some cheap vessel and went and discovered it. What did they do to Columbus?"

"I don't care a red cent what they did to him. I wish you wouldn't bother me. Don't you see I'm busy?"

"Yes, you're busy in a misguided way. Everything you have been doing is wrong. If you want to make a wheelbarrow, you must start right. You should select a couple of good pieces of ash for the handles. Some people say that hickory is just as good, but it isn't. Hickory will warp and twist until it looks like a cork-screw. The way you're making that wheelbarrow is a disgrace."

"It isn't a wheelbarrow, dad burn it! When I want a wheelbarrow I'll go to the store and buy one."

"Well, if you're not trying to make a wheelbarrow, you must be trying to make a cradle, and I can be useful to you there, too. If there's anything I'm proud of it's my skill in making cradles. I did nothing else for thirty years and I always want to be neighborly and give people the benefit of the knowledge. There's a right way and a wrong way to make a cradle, and you're taking the wrong way. There's nothing more exasperating than a badly made cradle."

"Mrs. Flinders, who lives down the street a little way, had a great time with her youngest child. The infant seemed too fretful for any good use. It was yelling and sending in riot calls all day and all night, and the poor woman couldn't get any sleep. I stepped into her house one day and saw at a glance what was the matter. That unfortunate child's cradle was all wapper jawed. An India rubber baby couldn't sleep in it. I took that cradle home and rebuilt it on scientific lines and the baby slept so soundly in it that Mrs. Flinders had to pour ice water over the young one the next morning to wake it. Now—"

But Jagway had taken his tools and departed.

IN PRAISE OF ELOQUENCE.

An Alabama negro was defended in court by Senator Morgan. Having cleared the negro of the charge, the senator said to him, "Rastus, did you really steal the mule?"

"Well, Marse Morgan, it was just like this," said Rastus: "I really thought I did steal dat mule, but after what you said to the jury I was convinced I didn't."—From "Success Magazine."

HEAVY DAMAGES FOR A JOKE.

Two Young Men Fined $14,000 For Hazing.

Fourteen thousand dollars damages was the verdict of a jury recently in a suit brought by Charles Stoner against five young men of prominent families in Bradford, Ill., for injuries caused in a hazing prank of which he was the victim. The defendants are William Real, Earl Lappin, Arley Harwood, Earl Howe, and Francis Long.

Stoner, the son of a farmer, was attending school in Bradford last spring when the incident occurred. He was enticed from home one evening and dragged to a cemetery at the edge of the city, where he was tied to a tombstone.

He was terribly frightened at shadowy forms approaching among the trees, and made a desperate effort to free himself. As he lunged forward he pulled the tombstone to which he was tied over upon him. His knee bone was broken and he suffered internal injuries. His captors freed him, and he was taken to a hospital, where he remained a nervous wreck for many weeks.

One of his hazers, Arthur Pilgrim, is in California. Another, John Sharkey, is thought to be in South Dakota. These two, together with the five against which the civil action was brought, have been indicted for conspiracy.—Chicago Tribune.

The Murdock Family.

Bent Murdock tells of the coming to Kansas of the father of the Murdock as follows: "He cut a short hickory stick on the south bank of the Kaw River near the foot of Kansas avenue. Topeka, hung a pack on the stick, put it over his shoulder, crossed the river on a log wagon, took his foot in his hand, started on a beeline and walked from Topeka to Mount Pleasant, Ia., where he landed in twelve days, the distance being over 300 miles. That was fifty years ago last March. Thomas Murdock—he was the Colonel of a Virginia regiment that was mustered for the Mexican War but didn't go—left the Alleghany Mountains with a wife and five children in a covered wagon and a carryall early in the fall of 1856 for the Territory of Kansas. The father and two oldest sons made the overland trip from Mount Pleasant, Ia., to Topeka in the winter of 1856-7 by wagon, the wife and three younger children remaining in that town. When Thomas Murdock returned to Mount Pleasant he loaded his family into the cars for Burlington, where they took a Mississippi steamboat for St. Louis. Here they changed boats, taking a Missouri River one for Leavenworth, where they were met by a team and hauled to Topeka."

Colleges Undesirable Insurance Risks. Colleges are now regarded as rather undesirable insurance risks, and it is probable that the rate will be generally increased. In 18 years 784 fires have occurred in college buildings, etc., totaling a loss of $10,500,000 in money and a heavy loss of life. This makes the average money loss over $13,000.

First Woman's Rights Convention. Mrs. Elizabeth Smith-Miller and Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson are now the only survivors of the 89 persons who signed the call for the first National Woman's Rights Convention which was held in Worcester, Mass., in 1850.

Another Cure For Sleeping Sickness. Dr. Plimmer has discovered a drug which is far more effective in the treatment of sleeping sickness than atoxyl. Dr. Plimmer's researches have been carried out for the tropical diseases committee of the Royal Society of Great Britain.

English Schools in Santa Clara. English will be taught in the 13 public schools of Santa Clara province, Cuba, next year. Ultimately it will be a required study in all the Cuban public schools.

Shorthand Engravers Few. There are only three engravers of shorthand in England. One lives at Bath. He has, as a joke, suggested to his two London fellow-workers the propriety of a trade union.

Population of Canada Growing. The population of Canada, according to the official estimates of that country, was 6,504,900 on April 1, an increase of 21 per cent in six years.

Arctic Explorers Don't Have Colds. No Arctic explorers ever have colds until they return to civilization. Then, one and all, they are prostrated by severe influenza.

Students To Sit Erect. The public schools of Cleveland may be equipped with book holders which enable the scholars to sit erect while studying.

Gracing the Hall of Fame

ON the heights of the University of New York, overlooking the Harlem River, stands the Hall of Fame, where recently has been engraved the name of Mary Lyon.

Hitherto this peristyle or avenue of immortals has been reserved for American men.

A parallel loggia was provided for men of distinguished service in this country who were born abroad, such as Agassiz and Hamilton and John Paul Jones. In the central aisle of the immortals only such Americans as Emerson, Elihu Gray and great statesmen and generals were enthroned.

The recognition of an American woman to a place among the revered of the nation is significant of the wonderful change that has taken place in modern standards.

When Mary Lyon was doing her pioneer work and establishing a college for women at Mt. Holyoke, in Massachusetts, she met with chill and even aggressive opposition. Among her few male champions was a clergyman. Although of the old school, he went about proclaiming that "as women had been the occasion of the fall, she ought to have the highest possible education to undo the ill effects of the fatal apple." This advocate is treasured uniquely in college annals as "Pa" Hawks.

Two centuries after Boston opened its schools for boys there was no welcome for girls. Miss Mary E. Woolley, now president of Mt. Holyoke, calls attention to the curious fact that girls particularly anxious for education "were sometimes permitted to sit on the door-step and hear the boys recite."

It was not until the beginning of the third decade of the nineteenth century that Rhode Island admitted girls into the public schools. The present president of Bryn Mawr, Miss M. Carey Thomas, encountered the survival of that prejudice in recent times. She says that before she went to college at Cornell she was permitted to meet a college woman who was staying at the house of an acquaintance. Miss Thomas went to see her with fear. She had almost expected to see the creature appear in hoofs and horns. It was a relief, however, to find that a star graduate, handsome and dressed like other women.

For four following years Miss Thomas studied at Cornell and then went to Leipzig. But that crowning ambition succeeded in alienating her circle in Baltimore. Letters received at Leipzig from her mother stated that the girl's name was never mentioned by women of their acquaintance.

"I was thought by them," Miss Thomas says, "to be as much of a disgrace to my family as if I had eloped with the coachman."

Now the education of girls and young women in this country is one of the most important features of our civilization. Girl graduates are now going in for public teaching for public service, and contrary to popular belief, 50 per cent of the total of educated girls get married. And their homes become intellectual and social centers in the highest sense. They are reviving the highest traditions of the salon.

Every educated woman is a beneficiary of the work begun by Mary Lyon. She was a New England girl who earned her own way and what, at fifteen years of age, was housekeeper for her brother.

Throughout her career as a college founder and president she introduced the spirit of service. She was the first to recognize that young people would rise to the occasion if put upon their honor. A statement made to her by a student was accepted by her as final. And truth, and the search for it became idealized.

Mary Lyon educated girls for teachers and sent them throughout America and into England, Spain, India and Persia. Lake Erie college in Ohio and Mill's Seminary, in California, were founded by girls who went from her classes.

In enthusiasm over Mary Lyon's work, it is said that she was the emancipator of women and that, in time, the influence of her spirit will thus liberate half of the human race.

The Hall of Fame has been honored by the addition of her name in the list of immortals.

Poultry Pointers

Young chicks should not be fed sort mash.

Small grains, cracked corn and dried bread crumbs are best.

Keep the young chicks dry and well fed, and you will succeed in raising most of them.

Remember that poultry should have access to grit at all times; it is their substitute for teeth.

Sunlight is essential in poultry quarters. Darkness is conducive to disease.

Beginners would do well to confine themselves to one breed, and let that be a first class one.

For fattening broilers sour milk—clabber, as it is called—is excellent.

In feeding either sweet milk or sour milk, be sure the troughs are clean.

Make the laying hens feel comfortable and contented, and they will do better.

Many who embark in poultry raising think it is only a pleasant pastime. Those who are experienced, however, know that, like any other profitable industry, it needs time and attention.

Cheese Fritters.

Grate about two tablespoonfuls of Parmesan cheese (or any rather strong cheese will do) into a basin, and mix with it one tablespoonful of finely grated bread crumbs, and a little pepper and salt. Break a couple of eggs into another basin, and beat them well; add to them, gradually, the cheese and bread crumbs, and beat all well together. Have ready a frying pan, with a large lump of butter in it, and as soon as the butter boils, drop in the mixture from a dessert spoon in small cakes or fritters. Fry them a nice brown on both sides, and serve very hot.

Dairy School at Indiana State Fair

A Show of Dairy Cattle at State Fair.

One of the great schools for dairy workers is held at the Indiana State Fair every fall, this year the week of Sept. 4. It is continued through the week and in that week, and into every day, is crowded a great volume of practical information which men and women from the farm may acquire without cost, and apply it to their own dairies to the end of making them greater money producers.

The Dairy building at the Indiana Fair is in the charge of the experts of Purdue University. Exhibits of butter and cheese from Indiana farms and creameries, extensive displays of the newest dairy machinery, practical demonstrations in milk-testing, separating milk, ripening cream, butter making, will be given each day. Lectures by well known authorities on herd improvement, care and feed of the dairy cow, farm butter making and other important dairy topics will be given. Charts, weed seeds exhibits and other displays will help in making the State Fair Dairy School of utmost importance and of lasting value to all men and women who would have success in this profitable line of farm work.

In the cattle shows will be seen hundreds of high grade dairy animals of all kinds. They will be an inspiration to the farmer who would improve his herd, and he will find the State Fair the best market if he seeks to buy a dairy animal of the highest quality.

How to Win Success

SCHOOL IS THE beginning of business, and business is the greatest school in the world. Education begins with the child's first crying gasp at the atmosphere into which it is born, and it goes on to the last act of life.

The young man or woman who leaves school for business is still the same individual. The change consists only in taking up one set of tasks for another. The work that calls out the power has changed, but the call to the power itself is clear and distinct.

Business is an elastic word. It applies to the work for which a man receives, from some source outside of himself, payment for the use of energy which is aroused within him. In its broadest sense, then, the word business may refer to the laborer who gives what seems to be only physical strength, and to the financier or scholar, who gives mental power. In either case the reward is for power set in motion.

It has been pointed out by Mr. Arnold Bennett that, in the popular sense of the word, it is impossible for all men to succeed. This is not an indictment against the word Success, but against our use of it.

Every human being can succeed in the one path that is open to him. That is, he can succeed in letting himself out, if he will, which means, if he "wills it."

"What I am," said Sir Humphry

Davy, "I have made myself."

In every man there is something which can be increased, something that lets out the real man and gives him another chance to show what is in him. It may mean only a good foot soldier instead of a general; it may mean a humble schoolmaster, and not a Pestalozzi; it again may mean a man wise to his humble task of family government, and not at all wise in national government.

But there is need of all these kinds of men and each in relation to the man concerned spells success, for success is like life itself. A mouse is just as much alive as an elephant, despite the difference in their bulks.

Real success is that which is developed by business, or by a man's daily work. It may be, on the one hand, the simple task of digging a ditch, or, on the other, the guiding of a national crisis. Some measure of a man is called out in both cases, and a man can win success at either task.

II.

Now, if we use this word business as meaning a man's daily labor; it is a great word, and it shows clearly its direction whence success comes.

A man at work is not a slave. He is a free man. He serves the world, and his presence among other men is that of one bearing a part of the load. By his help the work of the world moves forward.

This applies as much to a boy running an elevator as it does to a man who carries on a large business.

And the comfort it has for the boy in the elevator is this: When he has learned how to do his work in the very best way he is ready to move on to a better place. After all, it is not easy to run an elevator in the best way.

III.

School is so arranged that we move on from class to class. As we know we are making good. We do our lessons as they are given us, and the teacher keeps a record of how we do them. If he records shows up to his satisfaction he puts a check mark against our name to say that we are passed on.

The advantage of this is that some one, man or woman, is taking the trouble to see that we get our advancement when we are ready for it.

No one ever gets out of place. Our record belongs to us, and we stand or fall on the work we do.

Business, like school, is arranged so that we can go on from class to class. Now if we actually KEEP

ON MOVING, if we keep on making a good record, some one will take notice of it and give us credit for it;

or, if no such person is watching us, our record will, of itself, push us into a better place.

Many people do not believe this, but it is true. No one can trust anything with more faith than he can trust good work.

When a man stops getting on in life something is wrong. Either he has done his work only passably well, or, having mastered it, he is content to stay where he is.

In this respect men at work are like boys in the old swimming hole.

They can either swim forward with a good strong stroke or they can just tread water. Now the business world is so full of men treading water that they often get in the way of the swimmer who wants to get somewhere.

When David Garrick tramped to London with Sam Johnson he had no money in his pocket. But he had something better, which was A

THOUGHT IN HIS MIND. This thought kept urging him to become an actor. And he kept at it until he succeeded.

Garrick went into business on the basis of a partnership. He was one partner and his ambition was the other. A combination of this kind cannot be beaten, unless the man himself is untrue to the other partner.

You have often heard about Opportunity knocking at a man's door.

Some men wait just behind the door,

listening for Opportunity to come along. When it raises its hand to knock the man rushes out and says:

"All ready, Mr. Opportunity. I am ready. Show me what to do."

But other men—and a lot of them are not just behind the door. They are in bed. When Opportunity knocks, they turn over and sing out:

"Not so much noise. I'm resting."

And that is a truth worth remembering that when a man wants to rest,

Opportunity always turns away from the door and lets him have all the rest he wants.

A Little Talk to Mothers.

H. L. Rann, who writes for the Indianapolis Star, gives out a few facts which mothers should consider:

"The mother who allows a 16-year-old daughter to float around town in a top buggy until 2 a. m. with a counterfeit of weak jaw and weaker morals merely opens the front door to grief and disgrace. If you don't know what company your girl keeps or what time of night she turns in, your roar when the gossip gets busy will sound about as pathetic as the wheeze from a Jew's-harp. The girl who insists on spooning with everybody in the corporate limits ought to be packed into the woodshed and relieved of her overflow of affection with a number 11 slipper laid carefully across the hips. We had sooner see a girl kiss a blind goat through a barbed wire fence than have her change partners six nights a week in the front parlor with the lights turned low. You can't gold-brick a sharp-eyed suitor with second-hand goods. There are lots of parents who are going up against the judgment day with about as much show as a hair-lipped girl in a beauty show, and their children will rise up and call them bladders with the enthusiasm of a one-legged man at a club dance.

THE DEPUTY'S CASH IS SHORT

TRoubles of Crawfordville Postmaster have been traced to the deputy postmaster, who is shy several hundred dollars.

DEPUTY IS TO RESIGN

They have been having troubles in the postoffice at Crawfordville and Postmaster Walkup was slated for retirement because of reports made by government inspectors. In the investigation which followed it appears that the deputy postmaster is responsible for a shortage of cash. The Crawfordville Daily Journal says:

"For the present time at least the Crawfordville postoffice is without a deputy postmaster, and it is reported on good authority that Ed Dennis, who has been filling that position since R. C. Walkup was named postmaster until Monday morning, will not be reinstated unless it is done through the postal department at Washington City. From the same source it was learned that an inspector came here last week, and after looking over the data in the department in charge of Mr. Dennis found an alleged shortage amounting to about $800, the exact amount could not be learned. The matter was reported to Postmaster Walkup by the inspector, and he made the alleged shortage up to the government, it is reported, on Saturday. Later Mr. Dennis executed a note with security in which he promises to pay Mr. Walkup in full the amount disbursed by Mr. Walkup with interest. It is reported that Mr. Dennis stated to the inspector that he did not know what had become of the alleged shortage.

SECOND "ADVERTISING" CAR FOR THE HAGENBECK-WALLACE SHOW WAS HERE TUESDAY MORNING AND TOWN GETS ANOTHER COAT OF GLARING PICTURES.

HERE ON NEXT TUESDAY

The second "advertising" car for the Hagenbeck-Wallace Show was here today and the crew was busy all morning putting up bill board signs and other advertising matter for the show. Many windows and other available spaces for advertising not obtained by the crew of the first "advertising" car of the show, which was here some time ago, are now adorned with glaring pictures of marvelous acts and acrobatic stunts.

The show is scheduled for here next Tuesday. There will be two shows, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. From here the show will go to Brazil. The show is one of the largest on the road and a large crowd probably will attend both performances.

PERSONAL.

Dr. and Mrs. Campbell and daughter, Miss Kathleen, have returned from Battle Ground.

O. G. Evans, formerly of this city, but now of Merom, who has been visiting here for the past few days, returned to his home Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ashton, who have been here visiting the former's parents, went to Terre Haute Monday for a visit. They live in Minneapolis.

A warrant was issued Monday for the arrest of Clifford Peyton, of Washington township. The warrant was sworn out on the complaint of Peyton's sister, Mrs. Joe Noe. Mrs. Noe charged Peyton with assault and battery. When Deputy Sheriff Kelley went to Peyton's home to arrest him, Peyton had gone to Brazil. Mrs. Noe then asked that the proceedings be dropped. No arrest will be made. It is said that Peyton was intoxicated when he made the alleged assault on Mrs. Noe.
